Subject: Draft Memo to Committee

Recently you may have received a memorandum from the Admissions Committee regarding inaccuracies in its representations to the Advisory Committee. We thought it would be helpful to share the following information.

The Admissions Committee wrote: "Seven states require that the Military Spouse FACTS: Only five states have an association requirement (AZ, ID, KS, NJ, and OH, OK, OR, SC, SD, USVI, WV, TN, and TX).

The Admissions Committee wrote: "The [Admissions Committee] could not find a parade of challenges to almost all requirements."

FACTS: Twenty-six jurisdictions have already adopted Military Spouse Admissions. The Admissions Committee did not point to a single challenge to any other requirement.

The Admissions Committee wrote: "The cut score competency standard is established in similar competency requirements, including Arizona and New York."

FACTS: New York does not have such a requirement. New York's system is outlined in New York's notice to military spouses here.)
